Sewer Construction

EUSTIS STREET Notes

NStar (formerly known as ComGas) plans to replace their existing cast iron gas main and service lines with new plastic lines in Eustis Street starting Monday, April 2, 2001. This work was postponed from last fall. The procedure is expected to take 4 weeks to complete. The main will be replaced in the first two weeks, followed by service replacement for the last two weeks. The new gas main replacement is a component of the Sewer Separation and Storm Water Management project.

Residents will receive advanced notice of NStar's replacement since the gas service to homes will be temporarily disrupted. Residents will have to coordinate with NStar to re-light pilot lights prior to restoring service.

RECYCLING NEWS

Recycling Stars Shine at Awards Ceremony

Over 60 people showed up at City Hall to honor this year's recycling award winners, including several groups of students from Cambridge schools. Recycling Advisory Committee members Robert Winters, Judy Nathans, Cathy McCormack and Rob Gogan took turns sharing the meritorious activities of each winner with the audience.

Mayor Galluccio presented each of the twelve winners with a plaque made from recycled plastic, and Councilor Davis presented them with a T-shirt made from 50% recycled cotton. Following the awards ceremony, city officials, winners, and their guests drank coffee from ceramic mugs and ate dessert off ceramic plates. Kids drank their soda out of re-usable cups made from recycled plastic.

Before and after the ceremony guests had the opportunity to view the Massrecycle Recycled Products Exhibit, which will be on Display at the first floor of City Hall through June 9th. Congratulations to all the Recycling Award Recipients: Union of Concerned Scientists, Add Inc., Aryt Alasti, Freedom Baird, George Bruno, Scott Sandberg-Radcliffe Institute for Advanced Study, Fayerweather Street School, Kennedy School and Kitchen Staff, Longfellow School, Kennedy School- Amigos Program, Worthington Place and Cambridge Cohousing. For information about award winners please visit our website at: <http://www.ci.cambridge.ma.us/~TheWorks/recycle.html>

READ, RIDE, RECYCLE

Newspaper recycling has come to the Central and Kendall Square subway stations, thanks to a partnership between the MBTA and the City of Cambridge.

"When we approached the MBTA with a request to expand their newspaper recycling program to include the Central and Kendall Square stations, we came away impressed by their enthusiasm and follow through," says Jan Aceti, Cambridge Recycling Director. "It has been a pleasure to work with the T on this project."

T riders will now find a newspaper recycling receptacle just outside each of the inbound and outbound turnstiles in the Central and Kendall Square stations. Additional receptacles are located at the southbound ends of the inbound and outbound platforms in Kendall Square station.

Newspaper collected at Central Square will be sent via subway car to Harvard Square, where it will be consolidated with newspaper recycled by Harvard Square station users. Save That Stuff, a paper recycling company, picks up the newspaper from Harvard and Kendall Square, as well as the other stations in the MBTA's newspaper recycling program, and takes it to a recyclables processing facility in Charlestown that handles recyclables from 50 Boston-area municipalities. From there, the newspaper goes to a paper mill in Maine, which uses it to manufacture telephone directories and newsprint.

Expanded Hours at Recycling Center

NEW HOURS begin March 1, 2001 at the Cambridge Recycling Drop-off Center: Tuesday & Thursday: 4:00pm-7:30pm, Saturday: 9:00am-4:00pm. Call 349-4005 for recorded information about items being accepted or visit our website at: <http://www.ci.cambridge.ma.us/~TheWorks/recycle.html>.
