NOTES FROM THE OCT. 21 MEETING

TROMP Cambridge

TROMP (Travel Responsibility Outreach & Mentoring Project) is a new community initiative that collaborates with the city and private organizations to alter the culture of traffic in Cambridge. Among their goals is to encourage residents and visitors to be more responsible and conscientious.

"It's not just about cars," explained organizer Matt Shuman, "but also train passengers, cyclists, and pedestrians. The bottom line is encouraging people to be aware of the laws, follow them, and act conscientiously towards other travelers on the road."

TROMP has organized their program into four phases: orientation, education, warning, and enforcement. In addition, they've initiated the following projects:

- Working with schools on art and theater projects
- Spreading their message via Cambridge Community Television
- Working with Cambridge Chronicle newspaper to feature a traveler of the week
- Collaborating with State Representative Alice Wolf and Senator Anthony Galluccio to increase fines for jaywalkers and cyclists who weave through traffic

Mr. Shuman reported that community response to TROMP has been very positive. Learn more by visiting TROMP online at www.trompcambridge.com.

Physical Planning for Cambridge Elders

"Ours is a compact city," stated Roger Boothe, Director of Urban Design with the Cambridge Community Development Department (CDD). "Cambridge is walk-able, has good transit, and offers many services for a city of this size."

CDD has begun to focus on physical planning for Cambridge's growing elder population. The (Press buzzer for entry)

AGENDA

- Update on Living Well Network with Nathaniel Meyer, LWN Volunteer Coordinator
- Information about 2010 US Census
- Report from ANC/ABC Joint Committee on improving relationship between the ABC Board and the Council
- Long-term planning for the neighborhood

city offers numerous categories of housing and zoning to allow for flexibility and growth, as well as policies to assist lower income residents. Additionally, Cambridge sponsors a program developed by CDD that helps retail businesses make physical improvements to their shops, including better signage, improved lighting, and wider aisles.

Other options being reviewed by CDD include:

- Altering the current zoning to allow for accessory apartments (dwelling units that are subsidiary to a main dwelling), where an older relative might live in close proximity to family
- Improving sidewalks and promoting street level retail
- Good distribution of drug stores, food stores, etc. for older residents who need to have such amenities nearby
- Establishing more passive spaces for elders, including rest areas with shade trees and benches with backs
- Improving lighting and accessibility
- Traffic calming measures to improve pedestrian safety

ANC meeting attendees voiced the following thoughts and concerns:

- Residents would like to reclaim the park (operated by the MBTA) located just outside the Porter Square T Station by having the city assume responsibility for its care
- Sidewalk conditions can be perilous for older pedestrians and some resort to walking in the street to avoid snow, ice, and dimly lit areas

- Some residents wanted to reduce the opportunities for cars to turn right at a red light
- Cars parked near the end of a street sometimes inhibit visibility and make it hard to cross the street
- Some residents reported sluggish action on the part of the Traffic Department in terms of communicating about and improving current traffic calming measures

Residents are invited to share their concerns and offer suggestions about physical planning for Cambridge's elders by completing an online questionnaire at www.cambridgema.gov/CDD/cp/zng/aging/aging_quest_form.cfm. For more information visit www.cambridgema.gov/CDD or contact CDD at (617) 349-4600.

Neighborhood Crime Report and Report of Armed Robbery

Sergeant Stephen Sennott and Detective Sergeant John Fulkerson of the Cambridge Police Department (CPD) provided updated crime statistics for the neighborhood, as well as a report on a recent armed robbery.

Crime Statistics

- Aggravated assaults: Two (one domestic)
- Auto theft: One (in August)
- Commercial robberies: None
- Drug-related incidents: None
- Housebreaks: Three (two successful and one attempt)
- Larceny from motor vehicles: Eleven (some thefts were car parts and some were items such as laptops)
- Malicious destruction of property: Eleven
- Street robberies: Two reported (one domestic)

Armed Robbery

Det. Sgt. Fulkerson, a night sergeant for CPD, reported that he responded personally to the report of an armed robbery where three men robbed a victim at gunpoint. Fifteen minutes after the reported Cambridge robbery, there was another robbery in Somerville on Highland Street near Dunkin Donuts. That victim fought back and three men between the ages of 18 and 23 years old were apprehended. Police recovered a plastic gun and stolen currency. The suspects are being held in the Middlesex County Prison.

The suspects, residents of Medford, are not charged with the Cambridge robbery because the victim was unable to identify them. Det. Sgt. Fulkerson explained that CPD believes the suspects may have been involved in other robberies around the city.

Det. Sgt. Fulkerson reminded residents to be vigilant about reporting suspicious activity to the police. This includes:

- Furtive or secretive behavior
- Persons gathering or looking around/ acting as lookouts
- Persons concealing items on their person
- Persons meeting on the street and walking into yards/behind houses
- Large groups becoming loud or boisterous
- Youth with the same color clothing, handkerchiefs, etc.
- Any activity that is criminal, disturbing to the neighborhoods, looks out of place, or feels otherwise unsafe

Improvement to Neighborhood Streets and Sidewalks

Owen O’Riordan, Cambridge city engineer, and John J. Struzziery of SEA Consultants updated the Council on improvements to neighborhood streets. The repairs are being completed in association with the Department of Public Work’s (DPW) on-going sewer/storm water separation project.

In the Agassiz neighborhood, gas lines have been replaced on Prentiss Street in preparation for street reconstruction. Once the street has been restored, the sidewalks will be reconstructed with materials matching the existing materials (for example brick sections will be replaced with brick), unless residents request a different material. DPW strongly encourages residents to request concrete sidewalks to improve accessibility.

Concurrent to work on Prentiss Street, DPW will reconstruct Oxford Street’s sewer line. Both projects are expected to begin this winter and continue despite the weather (the contractor will remove snow during construction). Prentiss Street should be completed by Fall 2010. It is presently proposed that this work will be followed on an annual basis by work on Forrest Street, Frost Street, and finally Newport Road and Roseland Street. For each street, DPW will coordinate with residents when and how the work will be conducted.

Parking/Traffic During Construction

DPW’s contractors will work from 7 AM to 4 PM on weekdays. Prentiss Street will be closed to everyone except for residents, and parking prohibited during posted hours. Resident-sticker on-street parking will be available in the evenings, except for four spaces reserved for the excavator. Residents must move their vehicles in the morning before construction begins. There will be a police detail during the day to assist with cars moving on and off Prentiss Street.

Finally, the City Engineer indicated that another meeting will be held within the next month or so for residents who live on streets where the construction will occur. More details will be provided by the city in communication with

Q&A

Q: Residents requested that DPW pay particular attention to signage, as it can be very confusing and residents don't always realize they can park at night and on weekends.

A: An engineer will be on-site to organize the signage. Also, residents can sign up for emailed construction updates. To sign up, contact DPW at www.cambridgema.gov/TheWorks.

Q: A tree was removed as part of the street construction. Will it be replaced?

A: Yes. Residents are welcome to offer suggestions as to where to place the new tree.

Q: Will the city work out an arrangement with Star Market for neighbors to park during the construction?

A: DPW can look into this. The department has a good relationship with Star Market as a result of previous projects in the neighborhood.

Update from Lesley University

Following a change in zoning adopted by the City Council last summer, Lesley University is moving forward with its plans to bring the Art Institute of Boston (AIB) to Porter Square. Bill Doncaster, Lesley's Director of Public Affairs, explained that the architectural design of AIB, which had been suspended until after the zoning change, resumed last month.

"We're continuing our work with architects and planners towards a new facility, working within the new zoning," stated Mr. Doncaster. "The drawings shared during the re-zoning process were massing studies –a rough representation for the space needed. From there, they will work on a more detailed analysis and site studies from within the context of the real-world constraints of site, including budget and educational purposes."

Mr. Doncaster also confirmed that there has been legal challenge to the zoning approval. "We continue to believe that the City acted within its legal requirements, we're working with the City to defend it, and we remain very proud of the process that led to its adoption," he added.
