ANC Meeting Notes

JoAnn Hoffman opened the 4/25 ANC meeting with one unannounced issue. The White Hen Pantry on Mass. Ave. in Porter Square is considering a package store license to sell beer and wine. The owner, Nazih Hamza, contacted the ANC for our reaction. He has not yet applied to the license board, and no hearing is yet scheduled. Members of Neighborhood Nine Association informed us that Nazih had been to their last meeting to advise them of his proposal. They developed several conditions for their support, and he had agreed to them. They voted to support the license. (See page 3 for information on those conditions.) ANC agreed to publish the information in The Whistler this month, and a meeting can be planned if necessary.

Introductions were made between Neighborhood Nine Association and the Agassiz Neighborhood Council. We were delighted to see Alice Wolf, former Cambridge Mayor, at the meeting.

The new initiative from the planning board, the IPD, was the first item discussed. It is a proposal to restrict certain building activities for one year beginning from the termination of rent control. This proposal would give the City some breathing space to consider the changes resulting from the end of rent control. It would allow planners the necessary time to consider the issues and develop policy. The proposal is intended to prevent immediate conversions of residential units to other use by restricting height and parking.

Donna Condron from Neighborhood Nine asked the participants to see the discussion in the context of working toward a subcommittee for both neighborhoods that would address the issues of the Mass. Ave. corridor from Harvard to Porter Square. Various people voiced their concerns and hopes for Mass. Ave. Some people bemoaned the loss of services for residents (hardware stores, bakeries, supermarkets) and noted the change in the complexion of services available. Chain stores like the Gap and Starbucks could make Mass. Ave. like Anytown, USA.

Other concerns focused on the need for Mass. Ave. to be more pedestrian friendly with amenities such as benches and trash cans. A bike path was discussed as were traffic and parking woes. There were many creative suggestions to follow up on in later meetings.

Harvard's institutional development was addressed, specifically their pending development of the block of stores including Look's, Crimson Cleaners, Three Aces Pizza, Central Barbershop and Adrian's Jewelry.

Another major impact on Mass. Ave. in the future could be Lesley College, currently developing a Master Plan that includes Porter Exchange. Lesley's acquisition of Porter Exchange includes the property across the street currently used as parking. The current thinking for the Master Plan is that Lesley will consolidate in two areas, Porter Exchange and the Mellen Wendell Everett St. area. This would include divesting themselves of other property in both Agassiz and Neighborhood Nine. Agassiz asked Neighborhood Nine to send a representative to the committee of Lesley and Agassiz representatives currently meeting.

Participants stressed the need for planning, and a joint group could begin to address many of these quality of life issues for both neighborhoods. Alice Wolf suggested that the neighborhoods could form a kind of Policy Statement for Mass. Ave. that would address the important issues. This would allow the neighborhoods to work from that document, and not on an ad hoc basis every time an issue came up on Mass. Ave. It would put the neighborhoods in control and make it easier for the City to help the neighborhoods realize their goals.

The issue of housing after rent control was the last joint neighborhood item discussed. There is currently concern over the policies presented by Harvard in the Agassiz neighborhood. Neighborhood Nine felt that Harvard did not own much property there, but many were concerned about...
Do You Use Mass. Ave.?
Everybody does. Join with members of Agassiz and Neighborhood Nine to discuss how we can best influence development along Mass. Ave. between Harvard and Porter Squares. A committee is now being formed to consider policies on parking, traffic, pedestrian friendliness, institutional and commercial development, beautification, and more. Bring your own concerns. Call Terry DeLancey at the ANC, 849-6287 and get your name on our list.

the changes rent control may bring from the sale of condos. Howard Medwed said he believed that since the issue was so big, it would best be handled with help of the City. There are, however, representatives in each neighborhood working on tenant issues.

The last item of business was the announcement of ANC Board candidates who will be elected in May at the Annual Meeting. The only new candidate will be Christa Evereteze, who lives on Prentiss St. Her resume was available, and more on all the candidates will appear below.

Last Month in this column, traffic issues discussed at the March council meeting were reported. These issues were then forwarded to Deputy City Manager Rich Rossi for resolution:
1. Oxford Street be opened September 1
2. Oxford Street have barriers not easy moved
3. Signs at Oxford and Beacon and Oxford and Kirkland be more visible, preferably with the wording “No through street”
4. Provide bicycle lanes in the street where Oxford is closed
5. Provide spot enforcement by police on all detour streets to prevent speeding and enforce stopping
6. Replace any missing signs
7. Work out safety on Garfield St. at Mass. Ave. and at Oxford St. corners

Mark Woods, who had attended the March meeting, stopped by the council office to request that number 7 on the list be amended to include his specific suggestion that a three way stop be created at the Garfield Oxford Street corner with stop signs and crosswalks as he had requested at the council meeting. The specific suggestion has been added as number 8 and has been referred to Mr. Rossi’s office.

Harvard Announces Plans for Rent Control Properties

Last week, Harvard's Real Estate office announced plans for a new housing development on the Wharf Campus. The project will include 700 new rental units, primarily serving students and faculty.

Garfield Street Development

The Garfield Street neighborhood met with the Consolidated Housing Authority (CHA) to discuss the future of the neighborhood. The Garfield Street Neighborhood Association (GSNA) has expressed concerns about the proposed development, and the group is seeking input from the community.

Fresh Pond Ballet

The Fresh Pond Ballet is holding auditions for their upcoming performance. Auditions will be held at the Fresh Pond Ballet Studio, located at 491 Mass Ave, Cambridge. The deadline for auditions is May 15.
The group was generally very pleased with the draft of the Developer's Kit, and with the opportunity to have constructive input into its formulation. The group was also invited to help review the proposals and to interview developers, and was told that it could have a major influence in the design stage itself.

There will be another meeting of the group on 1 May at 7:30 P.M. at 20 Sacramento Street; all interested people are welcome to attend. Call 349-6287 to be on the mailing list.

Cambridge Guidance Center Awarded $500,000

This large contract has been awarded by the Massachusetts Department of Mental Health to create a Family Advocacy, Stabilization and Support Team (FASST) to support families with children at risk of hospitalization or residential placement beginning July 1.

“We are delighted to have been chosen to create this program,” says Susan Ayers, Executive Director of the Cambridge Mental Health Association. “Not only will FASST make a significant difference in the lives of children and families in Cambridge and Somerville by providing community-based support services tailored to individual needs, but by keeping children with their families and out of residential placement, we will save money for the Commonwealth.”

The FASST will be located at Cambridge Youth Guidance Center, a community agency operated by the Cambridge Mental Health Association, and jointly supervised by the Cambridge Mental Health Association, Somerville Mental Health Association, and Cambridge Hospital Department of Psychiatry. This is the first project of the Cambridge Somerville Community Service Partners, a consortium of six social service agencies.

Traffic Department Responds to Agassiz Concerns

Lauren Preston, Director of Traffic and Parking has responded to the neighborhood’s concerns from the March meeting:

The following actions have been taken to improve the safety on the Agassiz Neighborhood street in light of the continued closing of Oxford Street due to the school construction.

Additional warning signs have been installed and are clearly visible on Oxford St. at Beacon St. and on Kirkland St. at Quincy St.

During off hours bikes can ride on Oxford Street through the closed area. During the business day, construction activity is generally occupying the street.

The missing signs discussed at the council meeting on March 23 have been installed.

The contractor indicated he would try to assure the barricades remained in place blocking off the street.

However, since this is an emergency access lane, the barricades must be able to be moved by the Fire Department or other emergency services.

If you are interested in getting together to discuss this report or other traffic issues, please call the council office at 349-6287. There is a Traffic Committee meeting in the planning to discuss these and wider neighborhood traffic issues.

4/12 Caller was concerned about contaminated soil. Advised caller that contaminated soil had all been removed prior to construction. It was the safe removal that caused the construction delay, and no contaminated soil remained.
4/13 Caller advised us that a truck had been parked overnight and day on the closed section of Oxford St. Without a Cambridge sticker. Called the City Manager's Office who agreed to see that the truck was moved.
4/14 Caller did not like the sign that had been placed by Eastern Construction on the wall of the new school. Contacted the architect who advised that this was standard procedure. Contacted the caller and advised them to attend the ANC meeting on 4/25 if he wished to pursue the problem.
4/25 Caller said that the parking lot adjacent to the tot lot, currently used by the construction workers was full of garbage thrown around after eating. Called the City Manager's Office who agreed to provide the site with several trash cans.

Notes From the Building Committee 4/13
The Sacramento St. sewer project schedule has been coordinated with the school construction, and it will take place this summer.

Exterior masonry is nearly completed. Interior stud work near completion and dry wall is beginning to go up.

The substantial completion date is scheduled as August 28.

Sacramento Field Update
The architects have advised us that the sod will be going down as soon as the field is graded sufficiently. The fence should then be replaced to include only the grass area. The basketball court and soon to be created tot lot should be available for use this summer.

We have been asked to help police the field. Everyone must keep off the grass if it is to root properly. Please report any trespassers on the field.

School Dedication Planning

There will be celebrations in the fall to mark the opening of the new Agassiz School. Members of the ANC want to join the school and city in planning events for our community. Some suggestions include a key note speaker, a photography exhibit of the old school and school construction, a souvenir booklet, an historical exhibit, a video presentation. Call the ANC at 349-6287 to join this exciting committee.

Garden Update
The City has come and improved the condition of the Sacramento Street Garden, which had a number of problems after the DPW excavation to place cable and pipe for the Sacramento Field renovation.

The electrical cable was buried at a depth sloping from 3-5. It is up to code and safe. The front fence will be "restrung". The DPW will provide fourteen 3' high stakes to guide garden hoses. They will provide additional peat moss and composted cow manure to plots that were adversely affected by the excavation. DPW has created a pile of red bricks to replace lost ones. The City has agreed to replace all lost plants and bulbs. Trees were pruned and two truckloads of high quality loam were spread.

Tenants Wanted for Lesley Committee

Since Lesley announced plans to draw up a master plan, neighborhood representatives have met twice. The first meeting was with Lesley Architect Dennis Carlone, and the second was a neighborhood meeting only to make a list of concerns. As The Whistler goes to press, the list of concerns is being formulated, but it will be reported on in the June Whistler.

The plan calls for a consolidation at both the Mellen St. area and Porter Exchange, and a divestiture of property outside of those areas. Tenants from the area around the Mellen St. campus are encouraged to join the committee.

Another meeting will be held to report Agassiz concerns to the architect on May 17, Wednesday at 8:15 AM. Anyone wishing to join that group should call the ANC at 349-6287.

Neighborhood representatives include: Ken Basler, Joel Bard, Fred Levy, Ellen Freidman, John Cunha, JoAnn Hoffman and Richard Griffin. At the April ANC meeting, Neighborhood Nine Association members were encouraged to send a representative.

City Wide

Community Oriented Policing Meeting

The C.O.P. meeting held on April 5th at CRLS took up a concern that has been raised repeatedly across all neighborhoods in Cambridge is the need for intervention of some sort when persons are observed who display behaviors that are potentially threatening, or who appear to be in need of assistance. This intervention is commonly known as outreach.

Because outreach can be associated with sensitive issues of human rights and human safety, it is important to develop the proper community response.

The meeting featured several panelists including Jill Herold from the Department of Human Services, Deputy Superintendent Mike Giacoppo from the Police Department, Eddie Harris, Director of Positive Edge (a youth outreach program), Mark Gray, Director of Cambridge Cares About Aids, and Betsy Snow, a Cambridge resident.

Cambridge has many services available, and the problem seemed to be how to link the people in need with the right services. Everyone agreed that all members of the community must work toward the solutions together, and not expect the police to solve these problems alone. The police can only get people off the streets. Any real help must be given by the social service agencies.

Many good action ideas were suggested later in the group sessions, and these ideas will be developed in later meetings of the Community Oriented Policing. To get involved call Vicki Boulrice 349-3236.

Concern Voiced Over Graffiti

The ANC has received a letter requesting some help in stopping the graffiti writing in the alleyway between Museum and Francis Ave. Concern over the use of alcohol and litter from the bottles was also mentioned. Lights and police patrol, or possibly gates with keys are suggested as some possible solutions.

Can you help us with this problem? Call the ANC at 349-6287.
